Yannick Hostettler advises and represents Swiss and foreign companies as well as private individuals in proceedings before state courts of all instances and before arbitral tribunal. His main focus is on commercial disputes, particularly in distribution law, general contract law, intellectual property law, and employment law. He also advises on non-contentious matters in these areas.

Yannick Hostettler has extensive experience in handling complex cross-border litigation, in the recognition and enforcement of foreign judgments, and in international legal assistance in civil and criminal matters. Additionally, he has experience in conducting internal investigations and in advising and representing individuals in such investigations. He regularly publishes, particularly on topics of civil procedure law.
